4.3.2 - Does your university as a body host events at university that are open to the general public: public lectures, community educational events?

Yes, CHAITANYA (DEEMED TO BE UNIVERSITY) actively promotes equitable access to quality education for learners beyond its enrolled students. The university provides free and open access to a range of educational resources and opportunities for individuals not formally studying at the institution.

The Central Library serves as a knowledge hub not only for students and staff but also for external learners and researchers. It provides access to an extensive collection of books, journals, and digital resources. The library also organizes training sessions, workshops, and awareness programmes on information literacy and effective resource use, open to the public.

Our university welcomes the public to attend many of our lectures and learning events. This also helps people off campus gain new knowledge and stay updated. We allow school students and community members to use our computer labs during special outreach visits. This gives them hands-on experience with technology and supports digital learning. We share lecture resources through our website, so that anyone interested can learn and benefit from them even without being a student here.

The institution regularly acts as a community anchor by hosting major cultural, wellness, and educational events open to the public. The public-facing festivals celebrate regional diversity, while the campus health screenings and interactive yoga sessions provide free community development and interactive public instruction directly on university grounds.
