4.3.3 - Does your university as an educational body host events at university that are open to the general public: executive education programmes (this refers to short courses for people who are not attending the university; this specifically excludes courses like MBA) and/or vocational training?

YES, CHAITANYA (DEEMED TO BE UNIVERSITY) actively contributes to Lifelong learning and community skill development by hosting Executive Education Programmes and Vocational Training Courses that are open to the general public. These initiatives are designed to equip individuals, including working professionals, entrepreneurs, and unemployed youth, with industry-relevant skills and practical knowledge that enhance employability and career advancement.

CHAITANYA offers a wide range of training programmes in areas such as Information Technology, Office Automation, and Communication Skills. These programmes are conducted to ensure that participants receive up-to-date, hands-on experience aligned with current market needs.

Incubation Centre also organizes specialized workshops and boot camps that promote innovation, start-up culture, and business management skills. Many of these sessions are open to the public and have benefited local community members, small business owners, and aspiring entrepreneurs.

Additionally, CHAITANYA conducts vocational training programmes under institutional initiatives to empower rural youth, women, and underprivileged sections of society, thereby contributing to inclusive socio-economic growth.

We allow school students and community members to use our computer labs during special outreach visits. This gives them hands-on experience with technology and supports digital learning.We share lecture resources through our website, so that anyone interested can learn and benefit from them even without being a student here.

The university hosts short courses and vocational development drives on campus. The photographs showcase hands-on training operations (such as blood typing, diagnostic screenings, and medical camp management) that function as short-term skill development courses, allowing participants to acquire practical vocational experience outside of standard degree paths.

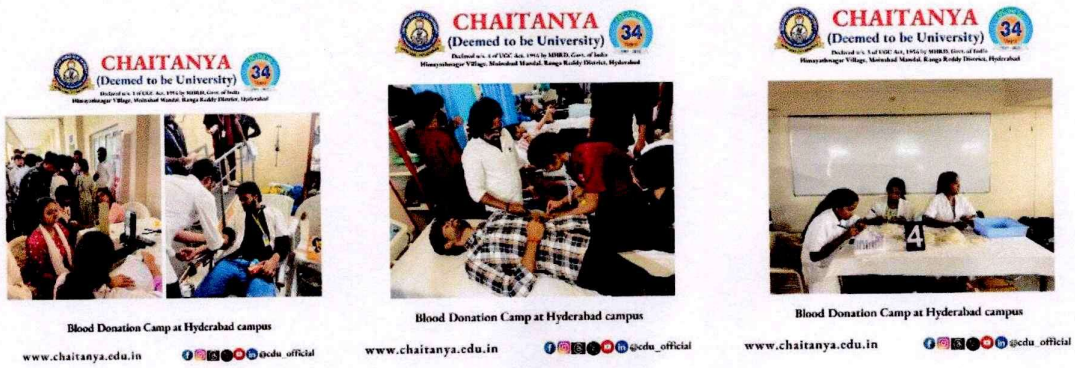

Fig. Visual records capture a multi-day Blood Donation Camp and specialized campus training setups featuring student medical/laboratory technicians.
